Spring Trade Week, after spending the day in the wholesale and manufacturing establishments of Richmend, had three hours of genuine enjoyment last night at the special performance of the musical play. "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," at the Grayce Scott Bijou Theatre, by professional and amateur talent. Local shafts of wit, dropping unexpectedly from the lips of the actors, drew many laughs from the visitors at the expense of Alvin M. Smith, J. T. Palmatary, and others, at whom they were aimed.

Much to the surprise of the executive committee of the Trade Extension Bureau, which arranged Spring Trade Week, the stream of merchants which has been pourling ieto the city since Monday continued in almost undiminished volume yesterday. It was anticipated that practically all the retailers who attended the affair would arrive here by Wednesday night. For the convenience of the visitors and local merchants, headquarters were opened vesterday, however, and the registra.

here by Wednesday night. For the convenience of the visitors and local merchants, headquarters were opened yestermy, however, and the registration officials had the unexpected pleasure of booking forty new arrivals.

The advent of the latest comers brings the total number of Southern merchants who have come to Spring Trade Week up to about 200. South Carolina, Georgia, North Carolina, and West Virginia, and, of course, Virginia are represented.

Business is Brisk.

Having given the first day of the celebration to sight-seeing and making friends, the visitors statted out yesterday morning to explore the commercial district, and to reap some of the business benefits of the week. The large wholesale houses were prepared to receive them, in many cases having receive them. In many cases having receive them, in many cases having receive the sergeant at arms to prohibit such person from appearing in the hall to be on hand to welcome their South-content and provide the contrary to the desi

Auditor Moore Tells Revenue Commissioners Books Will Be Closely Scrutinized.

Detailed instructions for the 1914 assent yesterday by State Auditor C. Lee Moore to the commissioners of revenue of all the counties. The sixteen-page circular is full of information for the proper assessment of real and personal property, and contains a firm warning of grand jury investigations in coun-ties where the returns are not found to be proportionate with those of other countles.

"The assessments of personal property and incomes by commissioners in 1913 show much more efficient and thorough work than those in previous years," says Mr. Moore in the circular. "A few of the commissioners have not been active and energetic in the dis-charge of their duties respecting the assessment of personal property and incomes, but I trust those, stimulated by the action and efforts of a large majority of commissioners, will this year do their work more efficiently, and believe they will.

"Of course, the courts should, and I believe will, in every county and city of the State, see that the mandatory laws requiring grand jury investiga-tions are informed. It is confidently expected that the taxpayers will, in view of the action of this Legislature, fully disclose and report for taxation their money, so that when the grand juries examine the books containing the assessments there will be few, if any, corrections or prosecutions to be had.
"The Constitution and laws require assessed values to be uniform; heretofore they have not been so assessed. varying materially in different districts of the same county without reason. "Proper assessment against every taxpayer will produce very largely increased assessed values, resulting in materially reduced rates of levies; pos-

Measure Prepared by State Bar Association.

Simplified court procedure, as recom-mended by the Virginia Bar Associa-tion to the General Assembly, was in-dersed yesterday by the Richmond Asdorsed yesterday by the Richmond Association of Credit Men at its quarterly meeting, and resolutions asking for the passage of the bill, and calling upon the representatives from this city to support it, were adopted. The full text of the resolution follows:

"The Richmond Association of Credit Men, realizing the imperative necessity to the business interests of the State and of the country of a simplified court procedure, and believing that the course procedure, and believing that the course unanin ously recommended by the State Bar Association will be most productive of results, not only on account of its merits, but because it will have the hearty support of both the lawyers and the courts, carnestly calls upon the Senate and House of Delegates to adopt the bill agreed to by the representatives of the Victima Bar Association. tives of the Virginia Bar Association. The judges and lawyers are, at least, alone held responsible for the conduct of the courts, and not the Legislature, and the Legislature should until their hands so that their important dutles may be performed.

1619 Susquehanna Ave., Phila., Pa. "My Dear Sir: For two years I was afflicted with hemorrhages of the lungs, and in February of 1902 I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonin. When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a frightful hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1902, that I started taking Eckman's Alterative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced well. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done."
